ABOUT KAITLYN

From the Ivy League to Fortune 500 consulting to the Startup world, Kaitlyn has spent her career raising her hand enthusiastically for the toughest, most ambitious assignments that create high growth, innovation, and impact. She advised the Nordstrom executive team and board on growth strategy, led 20+ teams to launch Nordstrom into Canada, developed educational content for industry leaders at Harvard Business School, and was a public high school teacher.

Her experiences taught her what it takes to lead and maintain performance in high stress environments. She's seen firsthand that focus on results alone without offering resources to stay resilient causes leaders and teams to lose the spark that makes them brilliant.

She left corporate to launch an executive and leadership development business in 2019. As a trusted strategic partner, Kaitlyn has supported top talent to reignite energy, engagement, and joy. Her clients elevate performance and thrive despite ever-rising demands. Clients appreciate her warmth, enthusiasm, and compassionate challenge. With "big heart and big smarts" she brings the sunshine with solutions that make clients shine. She's known for delivering exceptional work that brings out the very best in people.

Kaitlyn is an ICF credentialed coach, certified by the Co-Active Training Institute. She's also a Quantum Endeavors Certified Executive Coach, an accredited Integrative Enneagram practitioner, and a graduate of the Co-Active Leadership Program. She attended Cornell University, where she graduated in the top 1% of her class.
